VisionSys AI Inc. Appoints Tom Trowbridge as Senior Advisor to Drive Digital Currency Treasure Strategy

Strategic Hire to Drive Innovation and Ecosystem Expansion

NEW YORK, Oct. 10, 2025 /PRNewswire/ -- VisionSys AI Inc. (NASDAQ: VSA) ("VisionSys" or the "Company"), an emerging technology services company specializing in brain-machine interaction businesses leveraging core algorithms and related software and hardware systems, today announced the appointment of Tom Trowbridge as Senior Advisor to advance strategic initiatives in digital currency treasury management and decentralized technologies while accelerating the Company's growth in AI-driven solutions.

Tom Trowbridge has been appointed as Senior Advisor to the Company. A prominent entrepreneur and advocate for decentralized systems, Mr. Trowbridge is a co-founder of Fluence Labs and was President of Hedera Hashgraph (HBAR), from inception, leading the company to a mainnet launch. He hosts the DePIN Day conference series and the DePINed podcast and is an investor and advisor to multiple crypto projects and funds. He served as a board member of Stronghold Digital Mining (NASDAQ: SDIG) which was acquired by Bitfarms (BITF). Mr. Trowbridge holds a BA from Yale University and an MBA from Columbia University. In this consulting capacity, he will provide expert guidance on blockchain strategy, distributed ledger technologies, and fostering innovation in decentralized infrastructure.

"Tom's appointment underscores our commitment to pioneering digital currency treasury management and the convergence of AI and blockchain technologies," said Heng Wang, Chief Executive Officer of VisionSys. "His unparalleled expertise in digital asset strategy will propel our initiatives forward, enhance our competitive edge, and deliver greater value to our shareholders and stakeholders. We are excited to leverage their insights as we continue to build a foundation for the future of intelligent systems."
